

Wellspring drying
old men crying
without a whimper
without a tear.

Am I long too silent,
of what defiant?

Quiet front
of a phony war.

Living serenely an inigma,
dying with dignity as a stigma,
burying someone
who never spoke.